City Engineer Doesn't Favor Plan For New Athletic Field

High School Athletic Field as Suggested Would Increase Cost of New State Highway—Mr. Kearney Admits, However, That Highway Proposition Is Still in the Air

City Engineer Stephen Kearney does not believe that the plan to build an athletic field for the high school on the land in First street known as the First street dump is feasible at the present time in view of the fact that there is a crying need for a new state highway through the land and that the county and city have virtually agreed to construct such a highway as a co-partner proposition. It is within the realms of engineering possibilities to build such a field and at the same time construct the highway, says the engineer, but it would mean an extra cost of some $50,000 for the highway if both propositions were carried out at the present time.

If the athletic field were built, the proposed highway, instead of running directly through the centre of the so-called dump, would have to make a broad arc and run along the very edge of the Merrimack river. The would necessitate, as a corollary feature, a retaining wall to hold the highway. The athletic field, which would have to be some 100 feet wide, would extend from the highway to First street.

The highway would have to be built in accordance with well-defined specifications.

CLOTHING CHEAP HERE THREAT FROM GERMANY

Smith Admitted It, But Pleaded in Vain in Another Man's Clothes

"Did Ah steal this vere man's suit?" Certainly Ah didn't. What Ah would Ah steal his suit, judge? In this year town of Lowell Ah have always found myself able to get a good suit cheap, so why should Ah go and steal some other man's clothes?"

So said Lewis Smith of Boston when called before Judge Enright in police court this morning on a charge of larceny of a suit of clothes from George Coleman on March 13.

Mr. Coleman told the court that a week ago last Saturday he decided

Cry "Down With England"

AMSTERDAM, March 21.—A demonstration "against the violation of German territory under the peace treaty" was held in Berlin Sunday in front of the residence of President Ebert. After the meeting the crowd went to the Hotel Adlon, where most of the entente representatives in Berlin are quartered. The crowd instilled American officers for British and shouted: "Down with England."

COURT MARTIAL OF CAPT. CHAMBERLAIN

LONDON, March 21.—The court-martial in the case of Capt. Edmund G. Chamberlain of San Antonio, Tex., an officer of the United States Marine corps, the story of whose exploits in bringing down a number of German machines in an air battle while he was on a visit to the British front, last July, has been under investigation for some time, was begun at American navy headquarters here today. He was formally charged with "scandalous conduct tending to the destruction of good morals" and with "falsehood." He pleaded not guilty.

Capt. H. W. Harrison of the navy presided over the court which was composed of naval and marine officers. The defendant was represented by a civilian lawyer, D. Harper, assisted by Maj. S. Williams of the Marine corps.

Shields Gets Life Sentence For Murder of Mrs. Trainor

Tragedy Occurred at Home of Victim in Lincoln Street, Jan. 20—Court Accepts Second Degree Murder Plea—Shields Under Influence of Liquor at Time of Murder

Special to The Sun.

CAMBRIDGE, March 21.—George Shields of Lowell, indicted for the murder of Mrs. Rose Trainor, his nephew's wife, at her home, Lincoln street, Lowell, on the morning of January 20 last, was sentenced to life imprisonment this morning in the superior criminal court. When first arraigned, Shields pleaded not guilty in the Lowell police court, but he changed this plea to guilty of murder in the second degree when called today.

Before passing sentence this morning, Judge Dubuque reviewed the case briefly and said, although if tried before a jury, the defendant would undoubtedly be found guilty of murder in the first degree, in view of all the circumstances, the court felt inclined to accept the new plea. The judge further said that he understood that

REDS TRYING TO WIN OVER TOMMIES

LONDON, March 21.—(Via Montreal)—Forty British naval and military prisoners from northern Russia are in Moscow, according to a British refugee just arrived from Russia. The Bolsheviks apparently are trying to win the men over by giving them certain freedom while imprisoning officers in small cells. The men are allowed to circulate in Moscow and to visit British residents there. They are also better fed and clothed than the officers. Despite the Bolshevik efforts, the refugees say, the men show no sign of joining the soviet ranks.

Gen. Rosso, Who Commanded Part of Italian Line, Acquitted by Court Martial

ROME, Sunday, March 23.—General Rosso, who was in command of a part of the Italian line along the Isonzo river in October, 1917, when the great German-Austrian attack was launched, has been acquitted by a court martial of a charge of having abandoned his position too soon before the enemy attack. This was the first trial arising from the Caporetto disaster.

JOB FOR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

NEW YORK, March 24.—"We need a $10,000 a year man to take charge of our organization. Can you have one at our office at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon?" This inquiry was made by one of the large publishing houses in New York city and was sent to the Hall of States of the New York war camp community service at 27 West 25th street, where many jobs are being found for returning soldiers, who call there for messages from their homes all over the country. Needless to say, the $10,000 man was promptly found.

Offers of jobs for soldiers and sailors in their home states are being received daily at the Hall of States. Idaho has sent an urgent wire asking that at least 3000 men be sent there immediately to work on large road construction contracts. Idaho soldiers are wanted first, but the number may be filled out with men from the other western states.

North Carolina also sent a request asking for 300 soldier-farmers to be added to the 500 asked for on the day before. This request was also urgent and the men will go to work as soon as they report to the farms. Sheldon, Missouri authorities have requested that every Missouri soldier available be sent home. According to their letter, the foreign labor element is moving away and within two weeks there will be work for every Missouri soldier who wants it. In addition to the above, the employment department of the Hall of States has 125 jobs waiting for New York men, the work being in and close to the city.

The labor requests from the states are coming in through their welcome-home committees, who make their headquarters in the Hall of States. Men from the various states report to their own committees as soon as they get leave or are mustered out and in addition to receiving a welcome are told why they can get work. In the greater number of cases the job is better in their home towns or states. It is expected that the unemployment situation among uniformed men in New York will be solved by this means and community service is making every effort to get the men to take the jobs in their home sections.

Community service is largely interested in solving the unemployment problem and recently added two new vocational directors to those now at work. In addition ten "job canvassers" have been added to those already in the field. During the last three weeks more than 6000 jobs for uniformed men have been found through community service and a large proportion of these filled with men who are proving satisfactory.

How the "Oregon idea" gets discharged soldiers and sailors back into their old jobs, was told by Mayor Gen. L. Baker of Portland, Oregon, at the Oregon Club for Soldiers and Sailors, which he officially opened at 725 Seventh avenue. The "Oregon idea" is to get every employer who hung out a service dag to take back a man for each star displayed.

"A large committee is at work throughout the state," Mr. Baker said, "and it has a fund of $100,000 to work with. Demand is being made on every employer that he keep his service flag up and that he display a white star on the red border for every returned fighter who is put back in his old position. Public sentiment backs this campaign strongly and practically all employers are holding up to the Oregon ideal."

The new Oregon club, affiliated with war camp community service, will get in touch with Oregon service men through the Hall of States of community service. More than 200 of them were at the opening. Clark Leifer, head of the Oregon club in New York, Rabbi Stephen Wise, Judge Thomas Carroll Burke and Walter Whittlesey are active in the club. Mayor Baker assured them that ample funds would be provided to maintain the club and help Oregon men get back home to their jobs.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute.

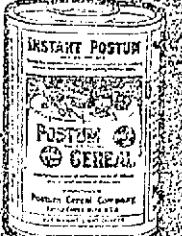

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a milder but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

What the Public Should Know About the Packing Industry

THE business of collecting, preparing and distributing foods so relates to the daily life of all that it has close, personal interest for everybody. Sensation seekers have long realized this and capitalized on it. An attack on the packers could always be relied upon either to draw notice to its instigator or divert too close investigation of some other question.

Possibly we are partially to blame for the lack of understanding which exists in regard to our business. In the past, knowing that attacks upon us have been based on tissues of half-truths, adroitly handled innuendo and misinformation, we may have forgotten that the public were not in full possession of the true facts.

Armour and Company have always courted proper inquiry into methods and operations. And, in the past few years, because of so many ex parte hearings, we have voluntarily put our case before the public. Through publication advertising, we have met the misleading headlines through which people get impressions, headlines frequently controverted by the text matter under them.

Confident that fair-minded people will respond to complete knowledge, we seek better understanding with them. Through newspapers, booklets, moving pictures of our processes and other similar methods, we are explaining the place Armour and Company occupy in the world of human needs and the manner in which they fulfill their function.

We are putting our case squarely up to all parties who are interested—to producer, merchant, consumer and labor—and that each may realize how our obligations to him must combine with our responsibilities to the other involved, we let all know the entire story as we tell it to the rest. We tell consumers what we say to producers—producers what we say to consumers.

When all is said, however, the size of any business dealing competitively in staples must remain the best evidence of its economic soundness. If our methods were not sound, Armour and Company could not have attained size in proportion to national needs.

Bearing this thought in mind, you will readily appreciate that your own self-interest and your right to fullest value for your money, both urge that you always ask your dealer for Armour Products.

U. S. Greatest Potential Maritime Power of the World

WASHINGTON, Mar. 23.—Shipbuilding facilities acquired during the war have made the United States the greatest potential maritime power of the world, asserts Chairman E. N. Hurley of the shipping board, and will enable it to outrace all other nations in the race toward replacing a shortage of 16,225,000 gross tons of shipping lost as the result of unrestricted German submarine warfare and of the failure of normal increase in new production.

Mr. Hurley made this assertion yesterday in a report of his trip to Europe where for three months he was in close touch with the shipping interests of foreign nations. The report will be used in working out a policy of ownership and operation of the American merchant marine.

Mr. Hurley estimated that in July, 1914, the seagoing steam bottoms of the world totaled 41,225,000 gross tons, which was reduced by war to 28,000,000 gross tons, a net loss of 13,225,000 gross tons. In addition, he stated, there was a loss of 12,000,000 gross tons which would have been constructed if war had not stopped the normal increase in production, making a total loss of 16,225,000 gross tons.

The allies and neutrals suffered a total loss by enemy action, marine risk and capture of 15,218,000 gross tons, Mr. Hurley said, and gained by new construction and seizure of enemy ships 11,249,000 gross tons, leaving a net loss of 963,000 gross tons. The net loss to the central powers was even greater since they lost 3,016,000 gross tons and gained only 740,000, a difference of 2,276,000 gross tons.

U. S. and Japan Lead
Only two countries, the United States and Japan, have a larger amount of tonnage now than when the war began. Japan showed a net gain of 25 per cent. Mr. Hurley reported, while the United States jumped far in the lead with a net gain of 125 per cent.

DOCTOR URGED AN OPERATION

Instead I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Was Cured.

Baltimore, Md.—"Nearly four years I suffered from organic troubles, nervousness and headaches and every month would have to stay in bed most of the time. Treatments would relieve me for a time but my doctor was always urging me to have an operation. My sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before consenting to an operation. I took five bottles of it and it has completely cured me and my friends.

I tell all my friends who have any trouble of this kind what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me." —NELLIE B. BRITTINGHAM, 609 Calverton Rd., Baltimore, Md.

It is only natural for any woman to dread the thought of an operation. So many women have been restored to health by this famous remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after an operation has been advised that it will pay any woman who suffers from such ailments to consider trying it before submitting to an operation.

The reason that we possess the greatest shipbuilding instrumentalities."

Mr. Hurley stated that Great Britain suffered a net loss in the war of 3,443,000 gross tons, amounting to 18 per cent of her entire tonnage. Other nations which suffered heavy losses include Norway, which lost 1,178,325 gross tons; France, 907,168 gross tons; Italy, $52,124 gross tons; Greece, 337,545 gross tons; Denmark, 239,922 gross tons, and Sweden, 201,782.

Every effort is being made by each of these nations, Mr. Hurley asserted, to regain their former maritime standing.

"The study of the shipping board experts revealed a seeming ambition among other powers to achieve a high-maritime standing," said the report. "In almost every country the desire exists not only to replace war losses but to add new totals to be used in the work of reconstruction and in developing new foreign trade.

"Even Switzerland has not escaped this desire to acquire a merchant marine. Ships will be acquired as soon as canal improvements are made on the Rhine."

The chief interest now centers on the question of whether the United States can henceforth maintain her new place upon the seas, or whether she must now disband the energies that brought her merchant fleet into being.

America Back to Sea

"There is every reason," Mr. Hurley continued, "for believing that America has come back upon the ocean—to stay. My observations compel optimism.

"The war has brought us into a high place as a maritime power. I hope the peoples of the world aroused to an intense interest and concern as to the use we are to make of this power.

"In America, you have heard much of British competition. In Great Britain I heard a great deal more about American competition. The truth is that our friends across the water are for the first time entering upon a period of actual competition. In our praise of British seamanship and British operating ability we have been prone to ignore the advantages which lay on the side of the ships which flew the Union Jack.

Era of Competition

"I have no misgivings about the era of competition which is coming. The obstacles of inexperience will quickly give way before American industrial strength and energy. It is a new age of ocean transportation as well as of public policy. It is an age in which new conditions will rule and old advantages will become inoperative.

It is an age of promise for those who would participate in America's high destiny upon the seas."

Mr. Hurley said prior to August, 1914, both the foreign trade and the shipping of the United States were dominated to a great extent by British because American traders and ship operators who wished to do business could do so most conveniently through British agencies. In 1915, he recalled, only one-seventh of the foreign trade of the United States was carried in American bottoms.

"The total exports and imports of the United States for the year 1915 were approximately 50,000,000 long tons," said the report. "With average shipping efficiency the movement of these goods would have required about 9,000,000 gross tons of ships.

"Assuming an annual increase in the foreign trade of the United States equal to the average increase for the five years preceding August, 1914, our greatly increased merchant tonnage if it all were to be carried in American bottoms."

Mr. Hurley declared it was an accepted principle that a strong maritime power should carry in its own ships at least 50 per cent of the aggregate of its exports and imports and in addition some of the trade between countries not yet in the shipping business.

"Assuming a total export and import business in 1920 of 70,000,000 long tons," he added, "it would require a fleet of about 7,500,000 gross tons to transport 50 per cent in our own ships."

One of the types of ships most desirable for the new merchant marine, according to Mr. Hurley, is a speedy, effective combination cargo and passenger liner of from 15,000 to 25,000 deadweight tons which could be operated efficiently in the transportation of high class merchandise, passengers and mail.

"Shipping men generally agree," he said, "that it is not the total tonnage but the character of the vessels that makes a successful fleet. The country

JURY IN THE O'LEARY CASE DISAGREES

NEW YORK, March 24.—After deliberating 54 hours and failing to reach a verdict, the jury which heard the case of Jeremiah A. O'Leary, charged with violation of the espionage law, was discharged by Federal Judge Hand at 5:55 p.m. yesterday.

Of the eight counts in the indictment three had been eliminated by the court. The jury reported that it had acquitted O'Leary, formerly editor of the anti-British magazine Bull, of four of the remaining counts, but had been unable to agree on the last.

The same was true in the case of the Bull Publishing company and American Truth society, co-defendants with O'Leary, but Adolph Stern, business manager of the magazine and the third co-defendant, was acquitted on all counts.

The three counts eliminated charged violation of the espionage law by written opinions and utterances of the defendant.

The four counts on which O'Leary, the publishing company and Truth society were acquitted charged conspiracy to obstruct enlistments and to promote insubordination among the armed forces of the United States and overt acts in the August and September, 1917, issues of Bull.

The count on which the jurors disagreed in the case of three of the defendants was an overt act alleged to have been committed in the October, 1917, issue of the magazine.

Although the jurymen refused to discuss their vote on the seventh count, it was reported about the courtroom that the vote had been 7 to 5 in favor of acquittal on this count also.

The foreman told Judge A. N. Hand that 20 ballots had been taken during the deliberations and that the vote had been the same on every ballot.

After Judge Hand had thanked the jurors for their patience and condescension in the case, which consumed eight weeks, O'Leary also thanked the jury. O'Leary expressed satisfaction at the fairness Judge Hand had shown during the trial, and said that he had no ill-feeling against the government attorneys, whom he had criticized vigorously during the trial.

"I know they had a public duty to perform and I wish to say that they did it conscientiously," he said.

O'Leary was taken back to the Tombs to spend the night, but it was announced an application for his release on bond would be made today.

A large crowd of O'Leary's friends were in the court room when the jury reported. Many of them had remained throughout the night in their eagerness to hear the verdict. There was no demonstration when the jury reported.

might have 10,000,000 tons of shipping which if not of the right sort could not be operated profitably in competition with ships of a better type belonging to another nation.

"I have heard a great deal of talk about the construction of 'junk' ships in America, emphasis thus being laid on the number of small ships we had under construction. It was sought to convey the impression that our new ships would suffer by comparison with those laid down by our friends and associates overseas.

"It may surprise these critics to hear, as I have heard, that British yards had under construction on October 31, 66 ships of 6000 gross tons and over. Our program for that date called for 105 ships of 6000 gross tons or over."

Mr. Hurley said three factors militated most strongly against the natural and desirable expansion of the foreign trade of the United States: First, the necessity for developing men, thoroughly American in every way, to handle foreign trade; second, the recruiting of an American personnel for the operation of the ships and the handling of the work at the ports; and, third, the extension of banking facilities.

The idea that too high wages are being paid American seamen for this country to compete with other countries successfully was ridiculed by Mr. Hurley.

"It is time for the public mind to be disabused of this conception," he stated. "The facts will dispel those who are agitating for a lower wage scale of American ships. We are paying our seamen $75 a month. England during the war paid her seamen $72 a month. The French and Dutch are paying high wages. In Sweden the seamen's scale is even higher than in the United States."

The retention of high wages was important, he added, because men who had labored under great strain yielded their attention more readily to the agitator. The success of any nation in shipbuilding and ship operating, he said, will be determined by the manner in which the labor situation is handled.

The idea that too high wages are being paid American seamen for this country to compete with other countries successfully was ridiculed by Mr. Hurley.

"Assuming an annual increase in the foreign trade of the United States equal to the average increase for the five years preceding August, 1914, our greatly increased merchant tonnage if it all were to be carried in American bottoms."

Mr. Hurley declared it was an accepted principle that a strong maritime power should carry in its own ships at least 50 per cent of the aggregate of its exports and imports and in addition some of the trade between countries not yet in the shipping business.

TWO NURSES BACK FROM FRANCE

Their relatives in Lowell and in Billerica were glad to receive word last Saturday that Miss Esther Laurin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Laurin, 40, Lundberg street, Lowell, and Miss Gertrude F. Robinson, daughter of Mrs. Jessie Robinson of Billerica, had arrived back safe in New York after two years' faithful service nursing the war wounded in northern France.

Miss Laurin was among the first of the women from Lowell, qualified as nurses, who volunteered for that kind of war work. She has a brother named Eric Laurin who has served bravely and valiantly as a soldier overseas and whom she met in the war area while on nursing duty. He is still in France. Miss Laurin received much of her nurses' training at the Lowell General Hospital and also served as a member of the nursing staff prior to starting for duty overseas.

Miss Gertrude F. Robinson served two years in the A.M.P. base hospital department and was a member of the Harvard medical unit. Miss Robinson's mother lives at Billerica Centre. Miss Robinson is also a graduate of Lowell General Hospital and before entering on her self-sacrificing career of a war nurse, was employed as a nurse in Boston for two years.

JAPAN'S AMBITION

The report that Japanese interests are negotiating for the purchase of a large tract of land from Mexico, on the Pacific coast, has caused more or less alarm, although there may be no foundation for the report.

But assuming that it is true, the government at Washington, in pursuance of the Monroe Doctrine, will have to see that this land is not to be used for military purposes by any foreign government.

It may thus be a repetition of the Magdalena bay purchase of some years ago.

Such an incident might easily cause a clash between this country and Mexico or even with Japan. It would be a very unwise step for Mexico to invite Japan to this continent.

There are at present several other incidents which might easily be magnified into a cause of unfriendly feeling between this nation and Japan.

American troops have clashed with Japanese at Tientsin and Japan is not pleased at the refusal of her request for a ruling against race discrimination in the constitution of the League of Nations.

In the latter instance she has not seen fit to press the immigration question; but it is plain that she is working steadily in that direction.

The time has not arrived when the people of this nation will open wide the ports of entry to the yellow races, nor in fact for other races without careful scrutiny so as to exclude all dangerous characters.

As for having the League of Nations control such questions, nothing of the kind could ever come within the scope of the league unless it became a super-governing body supreme over all nations not only in international but in domestic affairs—something that has not been dreamt of. Nor would this or any other country so far surrender its rights as to allow any outside body to dictate its policy on matters of immigration.

The League of Nations as proposed will have no jurisdiction over such questions in any country. Under a League of Nations we should have no more of this friction with Japan. If either China or Japan made any trouble, the league would take care of it. The United States would not have to deal separately with any nation from the orient, turned militarist.

The league will help nations that are peaceful and that want to mind their own business; it will control and restrain those that have militaristic ambitions and that want to encroach upon other nations. That is one reason why we should favor the league.

GREATER PRODUCTION

There is much talk of "super-production" in Europe. They know "over there" that while the great war debts are being paid, even larger sums must be spent for social legislation. They know that while labor is being better fed, housed and cared for in every way, the nation must still compete in the markets of the world. The two factors seem contradictory—impossible. War taught how to do the impossible as a part of regular routine.

"Super-production" means a new and higher stage of industry correlating novel industrial forces on a colossal scale.

France and Italy will chain the rushing Alpine streams to the wheels of industry. Wonderful plans to multiply the effectiveness of England's coal are taking practical form.

The skilled mind of the scientist and the trained technique and creative resources of the laboratory plishing the defeat of the central powers, it would seem that her claim to the Adriatic port is but reasonable and that it should be granted despite any protests from the Jugo-Slav nation soon to be established. The other allies apparently owe this concession to Italy. At the opening of the war Italy was a member of the Triple Alliance. Had she remained with Germany and Austria, the entente allies would have found the task of defeating Germany far more difficult. It would seem that as between Italy, a nation that has made so many sacrifices during the war, and one of the new nations that are to rise on the ruins of Austria, the claims of Italy should have precedence.

If Italy should withdraw from the peace conference, the effect would very seriously embarrass the other powers and make more difficult the work of establishing a lasting peace. Particularly would it be disastrous to a proposed League of Nations. It is, therefore, hoped the Italian claims may be satisfied and thus a serious rupture averted among the nations that stood so loyally together during the war.

THANKS, MR. COLE

It is refreshing to find that Hon. John N. Cole, chairman of the commission on waterways, has at last come to recognize the fact that the movement to make the Merrimack river navigable from Lowell to the sea, is among the projects that are practically certain to be realized in the near future. Mr. Cole for some years had been either neutral on this question or else opposed to it. Now, however, he comes out to notify the Boston and Maine railroad that in re-building a bridge over the river near Haverhill, provision must be made for a draw to accommodate heavy tonnage passing up and down the river between Lowell and the sea. It may be that Mr. Cole has done this rather as a matter of duty than from a desire to help the river project. We do not care what his motive has been, nor do we question it in the least. Suffice it to say he has done it, and in behalf of the friends of the movement, we thank him. It is right and proper that the Boston and Maine should leave room for barges and other vessels to pass under their bridges spanning the Merrimack.

ASKED TO RESIGN

The people of Missouri are beginning to ask Senator Reed of that state some very pointed questions in regard to his attitude toward the League of Nations. He is one of the leading critics of the league, being classed with Lodge and Borah. The people of his state, however, have taken steps to convince him that he does not represent the sentiment of the democrats of that state.

The riddle turns back to its beginning and points to its own solution. Only by the creation of a higher civilization for all can the burdens of war be borne and the success of productive industry be attained. When the wages of the laborer will buy more of the necessities of life, he will do more work and make less trouble. This is one of the steps that are essential to the highest productive power of our industries.

ITALY'S DEMAND

It appears that Italy is at the point of severing her relations with the Paris peace conference unless she be granted the seaport of Fiume, on the eastern coast of the Adriatic. It was Italy's ambition to secure all of the Dalmatian coast by conquest; but the principles laid down by President Wilson providing that national boundary lines should be regulated by racial unity, has militated against her ambition in this respect.

The opponents of Italy in regard to the new boundary lines are the Jugo-Slavs, who hold that this territory which Italy seeks is inhabited chiefly by their people and that it should, therefore, belong to the new nation. Inasmuch as Italy played an important part in accom-of scientific achievement. It is announced that wireless telephone communication has been established between the old world and the new so that parties on opposite sides of the Atlantic can carry on audible conversation. A radio station in Ireland conversed with one in Nova Scotia and it is reported that conversation was conducted between a station at New Brunswick, N. J., and the George Washington steamer anchored in the French harbor at Brest. This indicates that hereafter, we may expect to be able to carry on a conversation with persons on the other side of the Atlantic same as we now converse over the long distance telephone at a distance of some hundred miles.

GENERAL EDWARDS

After hearing or reading the speech of General Edwards at the armory, no one could fail to understand the secret of his popularity. Edwards has a heart. He is a humane man. He has the chivalry of a true soldier and gentleman. No wonder he became the idol of his troops. Was this the reason why some of the men who can inspire only hatred, decided that he should be removed?

Here is a paragraph that summarizes in a brief way the experiences of the Yankee Division in battle as given by General Edwards.

"They came out to rest, they thought or to train, but in twenty-four hours they were back in the trenches in the Tant sector, at Armenton, then Soissons. It was there the Germans wanted to break our morale. I used to say to these lads: 'Any of you lads who can't hit five boches, die!'

"I might tell you that the Yankee Division was never three days in any sector, but that No Man's Land became Yankee land. Then we went to the Vosges, Chateau-Thierry, Belleau Wood. They went over the top on the 18th of July. That was the time I had difficulty keeping up with them. There's not time to tell you of Chateau-Thierry and St. Mihiel, but the Yankee Division closed the St. Mihiel salient and did it alone."

That good old sport, Sir Thomas Lipton, is on his way to New York to inspect his challenger, Shamrock IV, and to make preparations for the race for the America cup. In an interview, Sir Thomas expresses his admiration of America and her people, and states that the Americans know England better than the English know America. He feels that if the English thoroughly understood America, a much better feeling would exist between the two countries and one that would operate for the benefit of both.

In spite of the after-effects of the war, we anticipate that the entire American people will take a keen interest in the coming contest for the America cup.

BORDEN OBJECTS

There is considerable significance attached to the reported objection of Premier Borden of Canada against the League of Nations. His motto is "Hands off except when the interests of the empire are involved." That policy would bring every power back to the plan of looking after its own affairs and letting every other do the same. It agrees pretty thoroughly with the views of Senator Lodge on the League issue.

It is not very likely that Senator Reed will take much notice of this request from the democrats of his state, who are in the minority in the house. Perhaps this explains the senator's opposition to the League of Nations. The republicans approve his speech and are likely to uphold him so far as they can against democratic opposition.

"What's What" In New Spring Tailor-Mades

Dame Fashion is specializing on the tailor-made—so there's little wonder that suits and coats have appeared with so many new and charming styles.

Snug sleeves, trim shoulders and skirts tapered just right give the favored narrow silhouette.

Little touches—especially braid—make the strictly tailored less severe.

Box suits supplant the Eton with a new little swing all their own.

Belted models take on an air with oddly tucked pockets, tuxedo girdles and shawl revers.

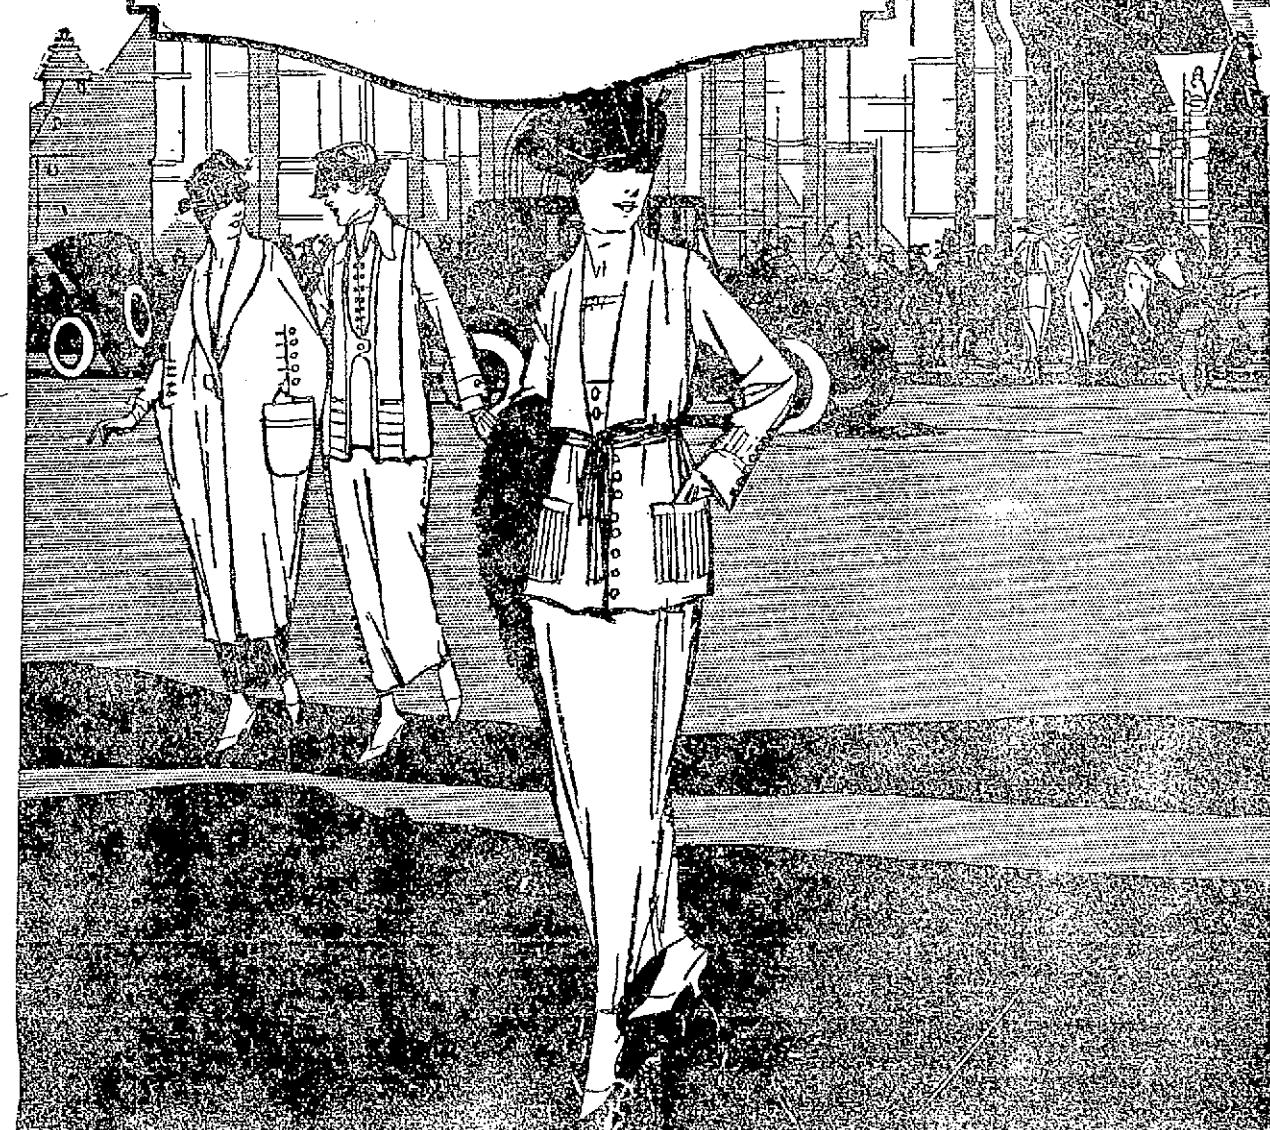

Let us show you these Wooltex tailor-mades that are illustrated and many others just as attractive—the last word in Spring styles.

City Engineer Against Plan

This year, it is going to cost a lot more reasonable figure and if the athletic field the city makes a decision in the than originally estimated owing to the field is built, it will mean that an exchange of the state highway commission in much as the county would have a large share of interest in the 1918 it was planned to have the city. For this reason, Mr. Kearney be-and the county do the work. It was at this time estimated that it is not feasible to build the field at that location at the present time, unless the city is willing to expend the extra money. In a few years, he says, the highway, if built, could be relocated for some $12,000 because new land would be available and then the field could be laid out without difficulty or the great expense that its present construction would inevitably incur.

With the increase in labor and materials, the city, of course, is anxious to get more than the $10,000 from the county which body voted to spend the two or three years ago. Whether the county is willing to increase its share of money for the highway is not known. In the meantime, the state highway commission experts have been asked to give an estimate on the work as it would cost if started tomorrow and when this is received, it is probable that some definite conclusion between the city and county will be reached.

As to the status of the new highway itself, the matter is more or less in the air. The county commissioners are very anxious that the city start work on it this spring and have threatened to spend the $10,000 that they are willing to appropriate on the proposition, in some other part of the county un-

LOWELL DEFEATED BY ALL POLO TEAMS BROKE LAWRENCE, 7 TO 3 EVEN LAST WEEK

LAWRENCE, March 24.—The Lowell team, playing its poorest game seen here this season, went down to defeat before Lawrence at the armory Saturday night. The score was 7 to 3. Pease, however, put up a wonderful exhibition of goal keeping and his work kept the Lawrence team down. Fahrner and Quincy were the Lawrence stars. The score was 7 to 3.

All teams in the American Polo league broke even last week, winning two and losing two, and as a result no change came in the standing. Lowell closed the week with a 10-10 record. At Salem, there was a tie in a five-game here on Tuesday night. On Friday night Lowell trounced the "Bogartes Jugglers" of Worcester and then dropped one to Lawrence in their next game. In the meantime, of course, in the two weeks to mark time, Lowell will go over the top, but if Salem should come strong, Lowell would have to travel to Land League, Boston, and players still feel confident of winning, and are determined to land every game possible from the leaders. Salem will play here tomorrow night and as usual will battle it out.

Lawrence will open here on Friday night. No matter how the downriver team goes against other teams in the league it always gives Lowell a chance. The rivalry existing between these two teams is responsible for the fact that both the Hardy clan shows when battling against the Harringtons.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, March 24.—Disturbing foreign advices and tomorrow's holiday caused irregularity at the outset today. This was most evident in shares which recently were the center of bullish speculative interests. United States Steel opened with a sale of 3000 shares of 1000, later steel recorded a further reaction. Oils, motors and equipments yielded variably. Trading in rails was light, marked firmness being shown by Reading.

Trading in canals and moderate during the morning but a better tone developed after the first half hour. This was mainly due to the strength of copper which rose one to two points on an unexpected demand by consumers for higher prices. Food shares such as American Sugar and Wilson Packing, also Industrial Alcohol and Royal Dutch Oil were strong, but other oils, equipments and the entire steel division demand further pressure, while the market in aluminum, copper, exchange, especially Italian remittances continued unsettled.

Specialties made further concessions, reacting 2 to 1 points from last week's final prices. Steel and sugars also declined. Trading in cotton was suspended on news of the lower Anconia dividend. American International and Sinclair Oil were the active and strong features.

Offerings of steel and shippings caused further reversals among leaders in the last hour. The closing was heavy.

COMPANY LOSES REGISTRATIONS

Special to The Sun.

STATE HOUSE, Boston, March 24.—The Auto Rapide Transit company of Dracut has been notified by the Massachusetts highway commission that the registrations certificates of its automobiles have been revoked by the commission, and it has been ordered to return them to the office of the commission at once.

to change his residence, and as he had a considerable amount of household goods to move, he asked Lewis to help him. Lewis agreed and Coleman told him to take a suit of clothes and leave it at the rooms to which he was moving. Lewis took the suit, but failed to deliver it as agreed. A few days afterwards Coleman met him wearing the aforesaid garments, and, finding argument of no avail, requested an officer to arrest him.

Lewis admitted that Coleman "sure did give him the suit," but stated that the agreement had been that he was to wait for Coleman at a nearby saloon and then deliver the clothes. He got tired of waiting for Coleman to show up and so took the suit home.

Lewis was taken back to his rooms after the court had heard the story, where he doffed the stolen garments and returned to the court room in his own clothes. After finding him guilty Judge Enright imposed a sentence of one month in jail.

Resting "Stred" Nerves

Samuel Sears, who gave Lynn as his residence when at home, pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness. Samuel states that he had been "on a bair" for several days, but allowed that possibly a week's rest in the local bastille might rest his nerves and improve his constitution generally. The case was accordingly continued until Saturday for sentence.

Fred Mallory, another member of the anti-temperance brigade, appeared before Judge Enright with his head swathed in bandages. Fred couldn't remember exactly what struck him, but thought perhaps he had collided with the sidewalk some time last evening, and thereby sustained the injuries to his caput. He was also of the opinion that a brief respite from life's gay whirl might prove beneficial, and drew down a sentence of one month in jail.

Pleaded Not Guilty

"Annoying and accosting persons of the opposite sex" was the charge against Bills Fappas and John Chatkas. A plea of not guilty was entered and a continuance granted until April 1. It is alleged that Bills and John met two young women on Rock street last evening, and did their best to make the girls allow them to "take them home." This plan failed to meet the approval of the young women, and an officer was called with the result that the men were taken to the station.

Not a Good Chancery

Joseph H. Wells, also with a neat white bandage encircling his head, was charged with larceny of an automobile, the property of Arthur La Jeunesse, and also with operating an automobile without a license. A plea of not guilty was entered, and the case continued until Saturday, bail being placed at $100.

According to the story of the arresting officer, Wells was walking through Moody street Saturday evening when he saw a machine standing at the curbing. He decided to take a little joy-ride, and jumped in the car and drove off. But as a chauffeur he proved a distinct failure, and after driving a few blocks ran the machine into a telegraph pole, injuring the car and also himself. He was arrested soon afterwards, and after his injuries had been treated at the hospital, was brought to the station, where he was later released on bail.

A large number of offenders charged with drunkenness were placed on probation or given small fines, and the probation officer issued 15 releases.

George C. Crane
Recover

East Deering, N. H.—Mr. George C. Crane, one of the most popular residents in this town, states that he suffered for a good many years with a most distressing form of stomach trouble. This brought on a weak, nervous, and finally more or less rheumatism, all probably caused from the blood being in a poor state.

Mr. Crane had his attention called to the need of iron in the blood and fortunately he knew that the only safe way to take medicinal iron was in a laxative form. He procured the genuine laxative tonic, Iron-Lax-Tonic, the iron medicine with the laxative in it, and says that only four bottles per day on his feet and made him as well as he ever was. This is strong testimony.

Nearly all leading druggists now sell Iron-Lax-Tonic. There are many iron preparations on the market mixed with this, that and the other thing so one should be careful to remember the name and get the genuine Iron-Lax-Tonic. This puts iron in the blood that makes you feel full of energy and vim and at the same time is beneficial to the stomach and bowels. Even after you get on your feet, and feel fine it is a good idea to keep on taking the tablets a little while so as to build up a reserve strength in the blood. NEW YORK, March 23.—While Fifth Avenue was getting its final touches of color preparatory to tomorrow's triumphal parade of the 27th Division, Brooklyn, Harlem and the Bronx were today the scenes of preliminary parades that attracted thousands of residents.

FIND IN FAVOR OF CHELMSFORD MAN

Special to The Sun

STATE HOUSE, Boston, March 24.—A finding that Daniel Nickles of North Chelmsford is entitled to recover the sum of $173.82 from the American Mutual Liability Insurance company, on account of an injury he sustained Nov. 15 last while employed by the Lowell Textile company, has been made by Chairman Kennard of the Industrial accident board.

In addition, the chairman of the board directs that the further sum of $7.23 be paid to Nickles each week until such time as he is again able to work.

In making his finding, Mr. Kennard reviews the evidence in the case and dismisses the contention of the company that Nickles, in sharpening knives was doing something for which he was not employed by the company. He says:

From the evidence, I find that this employee received an injury on Nov. 15, 1918, arising out of and in the course of his employment, and that as a result he has suffered the loss of the little finger on his right hand and has been totally incapacitated for work since that date and was still so incapacitated on the day of the hearing."

The insured rested his defense upon the proposition that the employee was engaged in doing something not connected with his employment, viz.—operating an emery wheel.

The evidence, however, shows and I find that the grinding of knives had become a part of this boy's work by reason of his having done it practically since the time he came there; that he was directed to sharpen knives on a whetstone when he first undertook the job and that in using the emery stone he did not so far depart from his duty to sharpen the knives as to remove him from the scope of his employment.

The testimony of the superintendent, Mr. Hilldrich, was that the boy Walker was hired to do the same work that Nickles was hired for, including using a knife to cut the yarn.

Nickles was instructed to show Walker his duties and I had a rule that in showing Walker how to run the emery wheel he was within the general line of his employment and the particular part of it which required him to show Walker about his work.

It follows from these findings and rulings that the petitioner is entitled

(1) to specific compensation for the loss of his finger, 12 weeks at $7.33, or 2-3 of $11 which I find to be the true act.

GET THAT
Lowell Coke
NOW!

The United States Fuel Administration, through its engineer, Mr. R. V. Norris, has announced that from thirty to thirty-five per cent of the anthracite output is now sold below the price of production.

Does that look as if coal is coming down? Coal will always cost more than Lowell Coke, and it will never be as good for heating or cooking purposes. Lowell Coke will always be cheaper than coal. It will always be better than coal because Lowell Coke produces an intense, even heat and every bit of it burns. That is why there are no clinkers from Lowell Coke and why there is very little ash. It burns completely because it is mostly carbon and carbon is the thing in coal that burns. In coal there is slate, stone, clinkers, gases and dirt. There is nothing in Lowell Coke but HEAT. And we give you extra good measure. Three sizes, Fine, Medium and COARSE, ten dollars a ton, delivered anywhere except upstairs.
